ABOUT US

The Sports Law Association of Malaysia (SLAM) was established as a professional body to inspire leadership, reform and interest in the issues of law in sports, creating a knowledge sharing platform for communication amongst sports lawyers and other players, in order to achieve best practices among practitioners and share experience with newcomers. SLAM is a unifying platform for the interaction between sports and the law, extending beyond dispute resolution. With the impending formation of the Malaysian Sports Tribunal, SLAM will strive to bring together ministry and associations alike to deal with the intricacies of arbitration in sports and will promote resolution of sporting disputes, from conflicts involving jus ludorum (law of games) to that of commercial sporting disputes.

OUR IDEOLOGY

SLAM is aimed at providing educational opportunities in sports law, fostering a forum for the discussion of legal issues affecting sports law, promoting the adoption of professional and ethical rules, and encouraging the implementation of an efficient system of sports dispute resolution in Malaysia. This is done through various projects and initiatives including but not limited to its independent organizing of workshops, conferences, talks and interactive events, as well as in partnership with other sporting organizations in the region. We seek to liaise and engage with various sports law related bodies and projects across the world, facilitating global interaction between our members and various stakeholders in the world of sports. To this end we will stimulate and promote discourse on law and sports in Malaysia and in other jurisdictions. Our association's core strength lies in the diverse pool of individuals and is open to people from all walks of life from sports law practitioners, sports arbitrators, sports administrators, sports law academics, lawyers, non-lawyers, athletes, students and anyone with a passion and interest in sports, to those in the sports trade or industry keen to keep updated about advancements in this arena.
